HIGHLIGHTS

- Returns for the Target Funds were mixed but generally flat during the 12-month period ended May 31, 2023. The funds lagged the S&P Target Date Indexes but outperformed their Lipper peer group averages.
- With respect to the shorter-dated vintages, our glide path's relatively lower allocation to cash and higher allocation to U.S. Treasury inflation protected securities weighed on results. Tactical allocation decisions detracted from relative performance, while our structural design added value across all vintages. Overall, the impact from security selection was mixed.
- Tactically, we are underweight stocks and bonds relative to cash. Stocks remain vulnerable to a slowing economy and a weaker earnings backdrop, while tight monetary policy remains a potential headwind to bonds. Within fixed income, we trimmed exposure to floating rate loans and increased our overweight to long-term U.S. Treasury bonds.
- The impacts from tight monetary policy continue to contribute to our cautious stance. While the pace of interest rate increases has cooled, we expect volatility to remain elevated in the near term as the effects of limited liquidity and falling earnings expectations are reflected in markets. Other key risks to global markets include a worse-than-expected decline in growth, central bank missteps, persistent inflation, and geopolitical tensions.

Dear Shareholder

Major global stock and bond indexes produced mixed returns during your fund's fiscal year, the 12-month period ended May 31, 2023. Rising interest rates weighed on returns in the first half of the period, but many sectors rebounded over the past six months as growth remained positive in the major economies and corporate earnings results came in stronger than expected.

For the 12-month period, growth stocks outperformed value shares, and developed market shares generally outpaced their emerging market counterparts. In the U.S., the Russell 1000 Growth Index and Nasdaq Composite Index performed the best. Most currencies weakened versus the U.S. dollar over the period, which weighed on returns for U.S. investors in international securities.

Within the S&P 500 Index, the information technology sector had, by far, the strongest returns. Big tech companies rebounded strongly at the start of 2023, helped in part by growing investor enthusiasm for artificial intelligence applications. Meanwhile, falling prices for various commodities weighed on returns for the materials and energy sectors, and turmoil in the banking sector, which included the failure of three large regional banks, hurt the financials segment. Real estate stocks also came under pressure amid concerns about the ability of some commercial property owners to refinance their debt.

Cheaper oil contributed to slowing inflation during the period, although core inflation readings—which exclude volatile food and energy prices—remained stubbornly high. April's consumer price index data (the latest available in our reporting period) showed a headline inflation rate of 4.9% on a 12-month basis, down from more than 8% at the start of the period but still well above the Fed's long-term 2% inflation target.

In response to persistent inflation, the Fed raised its short-term lending benchmark rate from around 1.00% at the start of the period to a range of 5.00% to 5.25% by the end of May, the highest level since 2007. However, Fed officials have recently suggested that they might soon be ready to pause additional rate hikes as they wait to see how the economy is progressing.

Bond yields increased considerably across the U.S. Treasury yield curve as the Fed tightened monetary policy, with the yield on the benchmark 10-year note climbing from 2.85% at the start of the period to 3.64% at the end of May.

Significant inversions in the yield curve, which are often considered a warning sign of a coming recession, occurred during the period as shorter-maturity Treasuries experienced the largest yield increases. At the end of May, the yield on the three-month Treasury bill was 188 basis points (1.88 percentage point) higher than the yield on the 10-year Treasury note. Increasing yields led to weak results across most of the fixed income market, although high yield bonds, which are less sensitive to rising rates, held up relatively well.

Global economies and markets showed surprising resilience in recent months, but, moving into the second half of 2023, we believe investors could face potential challenges. The economic impact of the Fed's rate hikes has yet to be fully felt in the economy, and while the regional banking turmoil appears to have been contained by the swift actions of regulators, it could continue to have an impact on credit conditions. Moreover, the market consensus still seems to forecast a global recession starting later this year or in early 2024, although it could be a mild downturn.

We believe this environment makes skilled active management a critical tool for identifying risks and opportunities, and our investment teams will continue to use fundamental research to identify securities that can add value to your portfolio over the long term.

Thank you for your continued confidence in T. Rowe Price.

Sincerely,

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The funds seek the highest total return over time consistent with an emphasis on both capital growth and income.

FUND COMMENTARYHow did the funds perform in the past 12 months?

The Target Funds generated mixed returns, as shorter-dated vintages declined and longer-dated vintages posted modest gains. The funds trailed versus the S&P Target Date Indexes but outperformed their Lipper peer group averages. (Returns for the Advisor and I Class shares varied slightly, reflecting their different fee structures. Past performance cannot guarantee future results.)

What factors influenced the funds' performance?

Our glide path design has a lower equity allocation and corresponding higher fixed income and cash allocations across most of the series relative to the S&P Target Date Indexes, in order to balance growth and volatility in the years around retirement. Within fixed income, holding a relatively larger allocation to U.S. Treasury inflation protected securities (TIPS) and, correspondingly, less cash detracted from relative performance, particularly among the shorter-dated vintages where these differences are most pronounced. This aspect of our glide path design detracted among shorter-dated vintages in an environment where U.S. TIPS trailed the broader fixed income market.

Tactical decisions detracted from results across vintages. Relative performance was hindered by an overweight allocation to emerging markets relative to international developed markets stocks. Emerging markets broadly declined over the period amid headwinds from the ongoing Russian invasion of Ukraine, economic and geopolitical uncertainty in China, and the sharp increase in most major developed markets' interest rates. We believe the outlook for emerging markets stocks has improved, and we are constructive on the potential for a tailwind from economic activity and stimulus in China. An underweight allocation to U.S. growth stocks, which have fared better than value-oriented stocks in recent periods, also detracted. However, we recently closed this underweight position.

The impact from security selection was mixed for the period. Underlying fixed income allocations detracted from performance among shorter-dated vintages, while contributions from underlying equity allocations added more value at the long end of the glide path. The underlying U.S. TIPS, dynamic global bond, and hedged international bond strategies trailed their respective style-specific benchmarks. On the positive side, the U.S. mid-cap value and international developed value equity allocations outpaced their respective benchmarks.

How are the funds positioned?

We maintained a cautious stance with an underweight to stocks and bonds in favor of cash. Stocks remain vulnerable to a slowing economy and a weaker earnings backdrop, while tight monetary policy remains a potential headwind to bonds. Cash offers attractive yields and liquidity in an uncertain environment.

Stocks

On a regional basis, we are modestly overweight to international stocks relative to U.S. stocks. International stocks offer relatively more attractive valuations, and local currencies have room to appreciate. However, the economic impact from reopening in China has been disappointing thus far, and tight global monetary policy remains a headwind. Outside the U.S., we are overweight to emerging markets stocks relative to developed markets stocks given attractive valuations. Tightening policy from central banks in some countries may have peaked, which may bolster the sector, although an uncertain near-term outlook for China could contribute to continued volatility.

We are overweight to U.S. small- and mid-cap stocks relative to larger companies. Markets appear to have already priced in an unfavorable economic scenario, leaving valuations attractive on a historical basis. Among smaller companies, we see value in selective exposure to higher-quality names and regional banks.

We are neutral toward inflation-sensitive real assets equities. We believe commodities offer an attractive hedge if inflation remains elevated; however, commodity prices may ultimately face pressure due to global economic concerns, while real estate investment trusts face pressure from higher interest rates and commercial real estate weakness.

Bonds

We continued to trim our position in floating rate loans throughout the period as short-term interest rates approach peak levels with the Federal Reserve (Fed) on the cusp of a pause, investing proceeds into high yield bonds and higher-quality areas such as cash. In the high yield market, credit fundamentals and higher yields remain supportive. While default rates are rising from historically low levels, they are not expected to rise significantly above long-term averages.

We increased our overweight to long-term U.S. Treasury bonds, which we believe can help provide ballast amid equity market volatility. While yield volatility could persist in the near term, we believe that long-term interest rates have likely peaked in the cycle. We remain overweight to dollar-denominated emerging markets bonds, which offer attractive yields. We believe the sector stands to benefit from peaking central bank tightening and moderating inflation over the near to medium term.

What is portfolio management's outlook?

Global equity and bond markets remained volatile during the period, with many major indexes trending lower. The outlook for the global economy remains mixed. Signals of economic strength have surprised to the upside, despite evidence of tightening financial conditions that are expected to weigh on growth during the latter half of this year.

Global central banks may be approaching a peak in the tightening cycle as inflation slowly recedes, although a divergent approach underscores the uncertainty in the current environment. The Fed looks to be closer to pausing as it emphasizes a data-dependent approach, while the European Central Bank and Bank of England face stickier inflation and remain on a tightening course. The Bank of Japan, meanwhile, is expected to push a shift in yield curve control policy out later into the year. While the pace of global interest rate increases has cooled, we expect volatility to remain elevated in the near term as the effects of limited liquidity and falling earnings expectations are reflected in markets. Other key risks to global markets include a worse-than-expected decline in growth, central bank missteps, persistent inflation, and geopolitical tensions. We continue to assess when to add to equities and other risk assets as we evaluate long-term valuations and early indications of stabilization or improvement in macroeconomic conditions. In our view, these conditions contribute to a less compelling risk/reward trade-off between stocks and bonds or cash in the near term, and we believe that a more modest allocation to equities may be prudent.

The elevated levels of volatility and uncertainty in global markets underscore the value of our thoughtful strategic investing approach. Given the uncertain impact of positive and negative forces driving global financial markets, we believe that broad diversification across asset classes, regions, and sectors, as well as our ability to actively adjust allocations to enhance the Target Funds’ risk/reward profiles, should benefit our investors over time across a range of market and economic environments.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

The principal value of the Target Funds is not guaranteed at any time, including at or after the target date, which is the approximate year an investor plans to retire (assumed to be age 65) and likely stop making new investments in the fund. If an investor plans to retire significantly earlier or later than age 65, the funds may not be an appropriate investment even if the investor is retiring on or near the target date. The funds' allocations among a broad range of underlying T. Rowe Price stock and bond funds will change over time. The funds emphasize potential capital appreciation during the early phases of retirement asset accumulation, balance the need for appreciation with the need for income as retirement approaches, and focus on supporting an income stream over a long-term postretirement withdrawal horizon. The funds are not designed for a lump-sum redemption at the target date and do not guarantee a particular level of income. The funds maintain a substantial allocation to equities both prior to and after the target date, which can result in greater volatility over shorter time horizons.

The views expressed reflect the opinions of T. Rowe Price as of the date of this report and are subject to change based on changes in market, economic, or other conditions. These views are not intended to be a forecast of future events and are no guarantee of future results.

RISKS OF INVESTING

The Target Funds' investment in many underlying funds means that they will be exposed to the risks of different areas of the market. As with all stock and bond mutual funds, each fund's share price can fall because of weakness in the stock or bond markets, a particular industry, or specific holdings. Stock markets can decline for many reasons, including adverse political or economic developments, changes in investor psychology, or heavy institutional selling. The prospects for an industry or company may deteriorate because of a variety of factors, including disappointing earnings or changes in the competitive environment. In addition, the investment manager's assessment of companies held in a fund may prove incorrect, resulting in losses or poor performance even in rising markets. Investors should note that the higher a fund's allocation to stocks, the greater the risk.

Bonds are subject to interest rate risk, the decline in bond prices that usually accompanies a rise in interest rates, and credit risk, the chance that any fund holding could have its credit rating downgraded or that a bond issuer will default (fail to make timely payments of interest or principal), potentially reducing the fund's income level and share price. High yield corporate bonds could have greater price declines than funds that invest primarily in high-quality bonds. Companies issuing high yield bonds are not as strong financially as those with higher credit ratings, so the bonds are usually considered speculative investments.

Funds that invest overseas may carry more risk than funds that invest strictly in U.S. assets. Risks can result from varying stages of economic and political development; differing regulatory environments, trading days, and accounting standards; and higher transaction costs of non-U.S. markets. Non-U.S. investments are also subject to currency risk, or a decline in the value of a foreign currency versus the U.S. dollar, which reduces the dollar value of securities denominated in that currency.

For a thorough discussion of risks, please see the prospectus.

These numbers may vary from the expense ratios shown elsewhere in this report because they are based on a different time period and, if applicable, include acquired fund fees and expenses but do not include fee or expense waivers.

FUND EXPENSE EXAMPLE

As a mutual fund shareholder, you may incur two types of costs: (1) transaction costs, such as redemption fees or sales loads, and (2) ongoing costs, including management fees, distribution and service (12b-1) fees, and other fund expenses. The following example is intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds. The example is based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the most recent six-month period and held for the entire period.

Please note that the fund has three share classes: The original share class (Investor Class) charges no distribution and service (12b-1) fee, the Advisor Class shares are offered only through unaffiliated brokers and other financial intermediaries and charge a 0.25% 12b-1 fee, and I Class shares are available to institutionally oriented clients and impose no 12b-1 or administrative fee payment. Each share class is presented separately in the table.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table (Actual) provides information about actual account values and expenses based on the fund's actual returns. You may use the information on this line, together with your account balance, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number on the first line under the heading "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The information on the second line of the table (Hypothetical) is based on hypothetical account values and expenses derived from the fund's actual expense ratio and an assumed 5% per year rate of return before expenses (not the fund's actual return). You may compare the ongoing costs of investing in the fund with other funds by contrasting this 5% hypothetical example and the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period.

Note: T. Rowe Price charges an annual account service fee of $20, generally for accounts with less than $10,000. The fee is waived for any investor whose T. Rowe Price mutual fund accounts total $50,000 or more; accounts electing to receive electronic delivery of account statements, transaction confirmations, prospectuses, and shareholder reports; or accounts of an investor who is a T. Rowe Price Personal Services or Enhanced Personal Services client (enrollment in these programs generally requires T. Rowe Price assets of at least $250,000). This fee is not included in the accompanying table. If you are subject to the fee, keep it in mind when you are estimating the ongoing expenses of investing in the fund and when comparing the expenses of this fund with other funds.

You should also be aware that the expenses shown in the table highlight only your ongoing costs and do not reflect any transaction costs, such as redemption fees or sales loads. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. To the extent a fund charges transaction costs, however, the total cost of owning that fund is higher.

The funds' performance information represents only past performance and is not necessarily an indication of future results. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance data cited. Share price, principal value, and return will vary, and you may have a gain or loss when you sell your shares. For the most recent month-end performance, please visit our website (troweprice.com) or contact a T. Rowe Price representative at 1-800-225-5132 or, for Advisor and I Class shares, 1-800-638-8790.

This table provides returns through the most recent calendar quarter-end rather than through the end of the funds' fiscal period. It shows how each class would have performed each year if its actual (or cumulative) returns for the periods shown had been earned at a constant rate. Average annual total return figures include changes in principal value, reinvested dividends, and capital gain distributions. Returns do not reflect taxes that the shareholder may pay on fund distributions or the redemption of fund shares. When assessing performance, investors should consider both short- and long-term returns.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

T. Rowe Price Retirement Funds, Inc. (the corporation) is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the 1940 Act). T. Rowe Price Target 2025 Fund (the fund) is a diversified, open-end management investment company and is one of the portfolios established by the corporation. The fund invests in a portfolio of other T. Rowe Price stock and bond funds (underlying Price Funds) that represent various asset classes and sectors. The fund's allocation among underlying Price Funds will change, and its asset mix will become more conservative over time. The fund seeks the highest total return over time consistent with an emphasis on both capital growth and income.

The fund has three classes of shares: the Target 2025 Fund (Investor Class), the Target 2025 Fund–Advisor Class (Advisor Class), and the Target 2025 Fund–I Class (I Class). Advisor Class shares are sold only through various brokers and other financial intermediaries that are compensated by the class for distribution, shareholder servicing, and/or certain administrative services under a Board-approved Rule 12b-1 plan; the Investor and I Classes do not pay Rule 12b-1 fees. I Class shares require a $500,000 initial investment minimum, although the minimum generally is waived or reduced for financial intermediaries, eligible retirement plans, and certain other accounts. Prior to November 15, 2021, the initial investment minimum was $1 million and was generally waived for financial intermediaries, eligible retirement plans, and other certain accounts. As a result of the reduction in the I Class minimum, certain assets transferred from the Investor Class to the I Class. This transfer of shares from Investor Class to I Class is reflected in the Statement of Changes in Net Assets within the Capital shares transactions as Shares redeemed and Shares sold, respectively. Each class has exclusive voting rights on matters related solely to that class; separate voting rights on matters that relate to all classes; and, in all other respects, the same rights and obligations as the other classes.

NOTE 1 - SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Preparation The fund is an investment company and follows accounting and reporting guidance in the Financial Accounting Standards Board Accounting Standards Codification Topic 946 (ASC 946). The accompanying financial statements were prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAP), including, but not limited to, ASC 946. GAAP requires the use of estimates made by management. Management believes that estimates and valuations of the underlying Price Funds are appropriate; however, actual results may differ from those estimates, and the valuations reflected in the accompanying financial statements may differ from the value ultimately realized upon sale of the underlying Price Funds.

Investment Transactions, Investment Income, and Distributions Investment transactions are accounted for on the trade date basis. Income and expenses are recorded on the accrual basis. Realized gains and losses are reported on the identified cost basis. Income tax-related interest and penalties, if incurred, are recorded as income tax expense. Dividends received from underlying Price Fund investments are reflected as dividend income; capital gain distributions are reflected as realized gain/loss. Income and capital gain distributions from the underlying Price Funds are recorded on the ex-dividend date. Distributions to shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend date. Income distributions, if any, are declared and paid by each class annually. A capital gain distribution, if any, may also be declared and paid by the fund annually.

Class Accounting Investment management and administrative expenses incurred by each class are charged directly to the class to which they relate. Expenses common to all classes, investment income, and realized and unrealized gains and losses are allocated to the classes based upon the relative daily net assets of each class. The Advisor Class pays Rule 12b-1 fees in an amount not exceeding 0.25% of the class's average daily net assets.

In-Kind Redemptions In accordance with guidelines described in the fund's prospectus, the fund may distribute shares of the underlying Price Funds rather than cash as payment for a redemption of fund shares (in-kind redemption). For financial reporting purposes, the fund recognizes a gain on in-kind redemptions to the extent the value of the distributed shares of the underlying Price Funds on the date of redemption exceeds the cost of those shares. Gains and losses realized on in-kind redemptions are not recognized for tax purposes and are reclassified from undistributed realized gain (loss) to paid-in capital. During the year ended May 31, 2023, the fund realized $1,691,000 of net gain on $10,757,000 of in-kind redemptions.

Capital Transactions Each investor's interest in the net assets of the fund is represented by fund shares. The fund's net asset value (NAV) per share is computed at the close of the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE), normally 4 p.m. ET, each day the NYSE is open for business. However, the NAV per share may be calculated at a time other than the normal close of the NYSE if trading on the NYSE is restricted, if the NYSE closes earlier, or as may be permitted by the SEC. Purchases and redemptions of fund shares are transacted at the next-computed NAV per share, after receipt of the transaction order by T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc., or its agents.

Indemnification In the normal course of business, the fund may provide indemnification in connection with its officers and directors, service providers and/or private company investments. The fund's maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown; however, the risk of material loss is currently considered to be remote.

NOTE 2 - VALUATION

The fund's financial instruments are valued at the close of the NYSE and are reported at fair value, which GAAP defines as the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. Investments in the underlying Price Funds are valued at their closing NAV per share on the day of valuation. Assets and liabilities other than financial instruments, including short-term receivables and payables, are carried at cost, or estimated realizable value, if less, which approximates fair value.

The fund's Board of Directors (the Board) has designated T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc. as the fund's valuation designee (Valuation Designee). Subject to oversight by the Board, the Valuation Designee performs the following functions in performing fair value determinations: assesses and manages valuation risks; establishes and applies fair value methodologies; tests methodologies; and evaluates pricing vendors and pricing agents. The duties and responsibilities of the Valuation Designee are performed by its Valuation Committee. The Valuation Designee provides periodic reporting to the Board on valuation matters.

Various valuation techniques and inputs are used to determine the fair value of financial instruments. GAAP establishes the following fair value hierarchy that categorizes the inputs used to measure fair value:

- Level 1 – quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical financial instruments that the fund can access at the reporting date
- Level 2 – inputs other than Level 1 quoted prices that are observable, either directly or indirectly (including, but not limited to, quoted prices for similar financial instruments in active markets, quoted prices for identical or similar financial instruments in inactive markets, interest rates and yield curves, implied volatilities, and credit spreads)
- Level 3 – unobservable inputs (including the Valuation Designee's assumptions in determining fair value)

Observable inputs are developed using market data, such as publicly available information about actual events or transactions, and reflect the assumptions that market participants would use to price the financial instrument. Unobservable inputs are those for which market data are not available and are developed using the best information available about the assumptions that market participants would use to price the financial instrument. GAAP requires valuation techniques to maximize the use of relevant observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs. When multiple inputs are used to derive fair value, the financial instrument is assigned to the level within the fair value hierarchy based on the lowest-level input that is significant to the fair value of the financial instrument. Input levels are not necessarily an indication of the risk or liquidity associated with financial instruments at that level but rather the degree of judgment used in determining those values. On May 31, 2023, all of the fund's financial instruments were classified as Level 1, based on the inputs used to determine their fair values.

NOTE 3 - INVESTMENTS IN UNDERLYING PRICE FUNDS

Purchases and sales of the underlying Price Funds during the year ended May 31, 2023, aggregated $166,701,000 and $160,004,000, respectively.

NOTE 4 - FEDERAL INCOME TAXES

Generally, no provision for federal income taxes is required since the fund intends to continue to qualify as a regulated investment company under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code and distribute to shareholders all of its taxable income and gains. Distributions determined in accordance with federal income tax regulations may differ in amount or character from net investment income and realized gains for financial reporting purposes.

The fund files U.S. federal, state, and local tax returns as required. The fund's tax returns are subject to examination by the relevant tax authorities until expiration of the applicable statute of limitations, which is generally three years after the filing of the tax return but which can be extended to six years in certain circumstances. Tax returns for open years have incorporated no uncertain tax positions that require a provision for income taxes.

Capital accounts within the financial reporting records are adjusted for permanent book/tax differences to reflect tax character but are not adjusted for temporary differences. The permanent book/tax adjustments, if any, have no impact on results of operations or net assets. The permanent book/tax adjustments relate primarily to redemptions in kind, the character of distributions from the underlying Price Funds and the recharacterization of distributions.

The tax character of distributions paid for the periods presented was as follows:

($000s)
		May 31, 2023	May 31, 2022
Ordinary income (including short-term capital gains, if any)	$	17,090	$ 15,414
Long-term capital gain		17,934	8,362
Total distributions	$	35,024	$ 23,776

At May 31, 2023, the tax-basis cost of investments (including derivatives, if any) and gross unrealized appreciation and depreciation were as follows:

($000s)
Cost of investments		$	497,985
Unrealized appreciation		$	32,282
Unrealized depreciation			(49,186)
Net unrealized appreciation (depreciation)		$	(16,904)

At May 31, 2023, the tax-basis components of accumulated net earnings (loss) were as follows:

($000s)
Undistributed ordinary income		$	2,928
Undistributed long-term capital gain			6,845
Net unrealized appreciation (depreciation)			(16,904)
Total distributable earnings (loss)		$	(7,131)

Temporary differences between book-basis and tax-basis components of total distributable earnings (loss) arise when certain items of income, gain, or loss are recognized in different periods for financial statement purposes versus for tax purposes; these differences will reverse in a subsequent reporting period. The temporary differences relate primarily to the deferral of losses from wash sales.

NOTE 5 - RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The fund is managed by T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc. (Price Associates), a wholly owned subsidiary of T. Rowe Price Group, Inc. Price Associates, directly or through sub-advisory agreements with its wholly owned subsidiaries, also provides investment management services to all the underlying Price Funds. Certain officers and directors of the fund are also officers and directors of Price Associates and its subsidiaries and the underlying Price Funds.

The fund operates in accordance with an amended investment management agreement (amended management agreement), between the corporation, on behalf of the fund, and Price Associates. Under the amended management agreement, the fund pays an all-inclusive annual fee that is based on a predetermined fee schedule that ranges from 0.64% to 0.45% for the Investor Class and Advisor Class and 0.46% to 0.30% for the I Class, generally declining as the fund reduces its overall stock exposure along its investment glide path. The all-inclusive management fee covers investment management services and all of the fund's operating expenses except for interest expense; expenses related to borrowings, taxes, and brokerage; nonrecurring, extraordinary expenses; acquired fund fees and expenses; and any 12b-1 fees applicable to a class. At May 31, 2023, the effective all-inclusive management fee rate was 0.52% for the Investor Class and Advisor Class and 0.36% for the I Class. Differences in the all-inclusive fees between certain classes relate to differences in expected shareholder servicing expenses.

In addition, the fund has entered into service agreements with Price Associates and two wholly owned subsidiaries of Price Associates, each an affiliate of the fund (collectively, Price). Price Associates provides certain accounting and administrative services to the fund. T. Rowe Price Services, Inc. provides shareholder and administrative services in its capacity as the fund's transfer and dividend-disbursing agent. T. Rowe Price Retirement Plan Services, Inc. provides subaccounting and recordkeeping services for certain retirement accounts invested in the fund. Pursuant to the all-inclusive fee arrangement under the investment management and administrative agreement, expenses incurred by the fund pursuant to these service agreements are paid by Price Associates.

The fund may invest in the T. Rowe Price Transition Fund (Transition Fund) to facilitate the fund's transition between the various underlying Price Funds as the fund rebalances its allocation to the underlying Price Funds. There is no specific neutral allocation to the Transition Fund. In addition, the fund may also maintain a small position in the Transition Fund when it is not actively involved in a transition.

The fund does not invest in the underlying Price Funds for the purpose of exercising management or control; however, investments by the fund may represent a significant portion of an underlying Price Fund's net assets. At May 31, 2023, the fund held less than 25% of the outstanding shares of any underlying Price Fund.

NOTE 6 - OTHER MATTERS

Unpredictable events such as environmental or natural disasters, war, terrorism, pandemics, outbreaks of infectious diseases, and similar public health threats may significantly affect the economy and the markets and issuers in which the fund invests. Certain events may cause instability across global markets, including reduced liquidity and disruptions in trading markets, while some events may affect certain geographic regions, countries, sectors, and industries more significantly than others, and exacerbate other pre-existing political, social, and economic risks.

Since 2020, a novel strain of coronavirus (COVID-19) has resulted in disruptions to global business activity and caused significant volatility and declines in global financial markets.

In February 2022, Russian forces entered Ukraine and commenced an armed conflict leading to economic sanctions being imposed on Russia and certain of its citizens, creating impacts on Russian-related stocks and debt and greater volatility in global markets.

In March 2023, the collapse of some US regional and global banks as well as overall concerns around the soundness and stability of the global banking sector has sparked concerns of a broader financial crisis impacting the overall global banking sector. In certain cases, government agencies have assumed control or otherwise intervened in the operations of certain banks due to liquidity and solvency concerns. The extent of impact of these events on the US and global markets is highly uncertain.

These are recent examples of global events which may have a negative impact on the values of certain portfolio holdings or the fund's overall performance. Management is actively monitoring the risks and financial impacts arising from these events.

HOW TO OBTAIN QUARTERLY PORTFOLIO HOLDINGS

The fund files a complete schedule of portfolio holdings with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) for the first and third quarters of each fiscal year as an exhibit to its reports on Form N-PORT. The fund's reports on Form N-PORT are available electronically on the SEC's website (sec.gov). In addition, most T. Rowe Price funds disclose their first and third fiscal quarter-end holdings on troweprice.com.

APPROVALS OF INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT AGREEMENTS

Each year, the Board of Directors (Board) of the T. Rowe Price Target Funds considers the continuation of the investment management agreement (Advisory Contract) between each T. Rowe Price Target Fund and its investment adviser, T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc. (Adviser). In that regard, at a meeting held on March 6–7, 2023 (Meeting), the Board, including all of the funds' independent directors, approved the continuation of the funds' Advisory Contracts. At the Meeting, the Board considered the factors and reached the conclusions described below relating to the selection of the Adviser and the approval of the Advisory Contracts. The independent directors were assisted in their evaluation of the Advisory Contracts by independent legal counsel from whom they received separate legal advice and with whom they met separately.

In providing information to the Board, the Adviser was guided by a detailed set of requests for information submitted by independent legal counsel on behalf of the independent directors. In considering and approving the continuation of the Advisory Contracts, the Board considered the information it believed was relevant, including, but not limited to, the information discussed below. The Board considered not only the specific information presented in connection with the Meeting but also the knowledge gained over time through interaction with the Adviser about various topics. The Board meets regularly and, at each of its meetings, covers an extensive agenda of topics and materials and considers factors that are relevant to its annual consideration of the renewal of the T. Rowe Price funds' advisory contracts, including performance and the services and support provided to the funds and their shareholders.

Services Provided by the Adviser

The Board considered the nature, quality, and extent of the services provided to the funds by the Adviser. These services included, but were not limited to, directing the funds' investments in accordance with their investment programs and the overall management of the funds' portfolios, as well as a variety of related activities such as financial, investment operations, and administrative services; compliance; maintaining the funds' records and registrations; and shareholder communications. The Board also reviewed the background and experience of the Adviser's senior management team and investment personnel involved in the management of the funds, as well as the Adviser's compliance record. The Board concluded that the information it considered with respect to the nature, quality, and extent of the services provided by the Adviser, as well as the other factors considered at the Meeting, supported the Board's approval of the continuation of the Advisory Contracts.

Investment Performance of the Funds

The Board took into account discussions with the Adviser and detailed reports that it regularly receives throughout the year on relative and absolute performance for the T. Rowe Price funds. In connection with the Meeting, the Board reviewed information provided by the Adviser that compared each fund's total returns, as well as a wide variety of other previously agreed-upon performance measures and market data, against relevant benchmark indexes and peer groups of funds with similar investment programs for various periods through December 31, 2022. Additionally, the Board reviewed each fund's relative performance information as of September 30, 2022, which ranked the returns of the fund's Investor Class for various periods against a universe of funds with similar investment programs selected by Broadridge, an independent provider of mutual fund data. In the course of its deliberations, the Board considered performance information provided throughout the year and in connection with the Advisory Contracts' review at the Meeting, as well as information provided during investment review meetings conducted with portfolio managers and senior investment personnel during the course of the year regarding the funds' performance. The Board also considered relevant factors, such as overall market conditions and trends that could adversely impact each fund's performance, length of each fund's performance track record, and how closely each fund's strategies align with its benchmarks and peer groups. The Board concluded that the information it considered with respect to the funds' performance, as well as the other factors considered at the Meeting, supported the Board's approval of the continuation of the Advisory Contracts.

Costs, Benefits, Profits, and Economies of Scale

The Board reviewed detailed information regarding the revenues received by the Adviser under the Advisory Contracts and other direct and indirect benefits that the Adviser (and its affiliates) may have realized from its relationship with the funds. In considering soft-dollar arrangements pursuant to which research may be received from broker-dealers that execute the funds' portfolio transactions, the Board noted that the Adviser bears the cost of research services for all client accounts that it advises, including the T. Rowe Price funds. The Board received information on the estimated costs incurred and profits realized by the Adviser from managing the T. Rowe Price funds. The Board also reviewed estimates of the profits realized from managing the Target 2020 Fund, Target 2025 Fund, Target 2030 Fund, Target 2035 Fund, Target 2040 Fund, and Target 2045 Fund in particular, and the Board concluded that the Adviser's profits were reasonable in light of the services provided to those funds. While the Board did not review information regarding profits realized from managing the Target 2005 Fund, Target 2010 Fund, Target 2015 Fund, Target 2050 Fund, Target 2055 Fund, Target 2060 Fund, or Target 2065 Fund in particular because those funds had either not achieved sufficient portfolio asset size or not recognized sufficient revenues to produce meaningful profit margin percentages, the Board concluded that the Adviser's profits were reasonable in light of the overall services provided to the T. Rowe Price funds.

The Board also considered whether the funds benefit under the fee levels set forth in the Advisory Contracts or otherwise from any economies of scale realized by the Adviser. Under each fund's Advisory Contract, the fund pays the Adviser an all-inclusive management fee, which is based on the fund's average daily net assets. The all-inclusive management fee includes investment management services and provides for the Adviser to pay all of the fund's ordinary, recurring operating expenses except for interest; expenses related to borrowings, taxes, and brokerage; nonrecurring, extraordinary expenses; any acquired fund fees and expenses; and any 12b-1 fees applicable to a class. In accordance with a predetermined contractual fee schedule, the all-inclusive management fee rate for the T. Rowe Price Target Funds generally starts to decline around the time a fund begins reducing its overall stock exposure and then continues to decline over time as a fund nears and then passes its predetermined target date. The Adviser has generally implemented an all-inclusive management fee structure in situations where a fixed total expense ratio is useful for purposes of providing certainty of fees and expenses for the investors in these funds and historically has sought to set the all-inclusive management fee rate at levels below the expense ratios of comparable funds to take into account potential future economies of scale. The all-inclusive management fee structure also provides greater flexibility to make investment changes, including underlying fund changes, while maintaining a certain expense ratio for investors.

In addition, the Board noted that the funds potentially share in indirect economies of scale through the Adviser's ongoing investments in its business in support of the T. Rowe Price funds, including investments in trading systems, technology, and regulatory support enhancements, and the ability to possibly negotiate lower fee arrangements with third-party service providers. The Board concluded that the advisory fee structure for the funds provide for a reasonable sharing of benefits from any economies of scale with the funds' investors.

Fees and Expenses

The Board was provided with information regarding industry trends in management fees and expenses. Among other things, the Board reviewed data for peer groups that were compiled by Broadridge, which compared: (i) contractual management fees, actual management fees, nonmanagement expenses, and total expenses of the Investor Class of each fund with a group of competitor funds selected by Broadridge (Investor Class Expense Group); (ii) actual management fees and total expenses of the Advisor Class of each fund with a group of competitor funds selected by Broadridge (Advisor Class Expense Group); and (iii) actual management fees, nonmanagement expenses, and total expenses of the Investor Class of each fund with a broader set of funds within the Lipper investment classification (Expense Universe). The Board considered each fund's contractual management fee rate, actual management fee rate, and total expenses (all of which generally reflect the all-inclusive management fee rate applicable to that fund and do not deduct the operating expenses paid by the Adviser as part of the overall management fee) in comparison with the information for the Broadridge peer groups. Broadridge generally constructed the peer groups by seeking the most comparable funds based on similar investment classifications and objectives, expense structure, asset size, and operating components and attributes and, where applicable, ranked funds into quintiles, with the first quintile representing the funds with the lowest relative expenses and the fifth quintile representing the funds with the highest relative expenses. There were certain funds that did not have a sufficient number of funds in their peer group to rank within quintiles. The information provided to the Board indicated that each fund's contractual management fees, actual management fees, and total expenses ranked as follows:

Fund	Contractual Management Fees	Actual Management Fees	Total Expenses
Target 2005 Fund	Second out of three funds (Investor Class Expense Group)	Second out of three funds (Investor Class Expense Group), first out of two funds (Advisor Class Expense Group), and third quintile (Expense Universe)	First out of three funds (Investor Class Expense Group), first out of two funds (Advisor Class Expense Group), and second quintile (Expense Universe)

The Board also reviewed the fee schedules for other investment portfolios with similar mandates that are advised or subadvised by the Adviser and its affiliates, including separately managed accounts for institutional and individual investors; subadvised funds; and other sponsored investment portfolios, including collective investment trusts and pooled vehicles organized and offered to investors outside the United States. Management provided the Board with information about the Adviser's responsibilities and services provided to subadvisory and other institutional account clients, including information about how the requirements and economics of the institutional business are fundamentally different from those of the proprietary mutual fund business. The Board considered information showing that the Adviser's mutual fund business is generally more complex from a business and compliance perspective than its institutional account business and considered various relevant factors, such as the broader scope of operations and oversight, more extensive shareholder communication infrastructure, greater asset flows, heightened business risks, and differences in applicable laws and regulations associated with the Adviser's proprietary mutual fund business. In assessing the reasonableness of each fund's management fee rate, the Board considered the differences in the nature of the services required for the Adviser to manage its mutual fund business versus managing a discrete pool of assets as a subadviser to another institution's mutual fund or for an institutional account and that the Adviser generally performs significant additional services and assumes greater risk in managing the funds and other T. Rowe Price funds than it does for institutional account clients, including subadvised funds.

On the basis of the information provided and the factors considered, the Board concluded that the fees paid by the funds under the Advisory Contracts are reasonable.

Approvals of the Advisory Contracts

As noted, the Board approved the continuation of each fund's Advisory Contract. No single factor was considered in isolation or to be determinative to the decision. Rather, the Board concluded, in light of a weighting and balancing of all factors considered, that it was in the best interests of the funds and their shareholders for the Board to approve the continuation of the Advisory Contracts (including the fees to be charged for services thereunder).
