INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The fund seeks long-term capital appreciation by investing primarily in common stocks. It may also hold fixed income and other securities to help preserve principal value.

Invest primarily in the common stocks of established U.S. companies believed to have above-average potential for capital growth.

In keeping with the fund's objective, remaining assets are generally invested in other securities, including convertible securities, corporate and government debt, foreign securities, futures, and options.

BENEFITS AND RISKS

The fund's attempt to cushion the effects of market declines on the share price could help reduce the overall risk relative to that of the broad stock market.

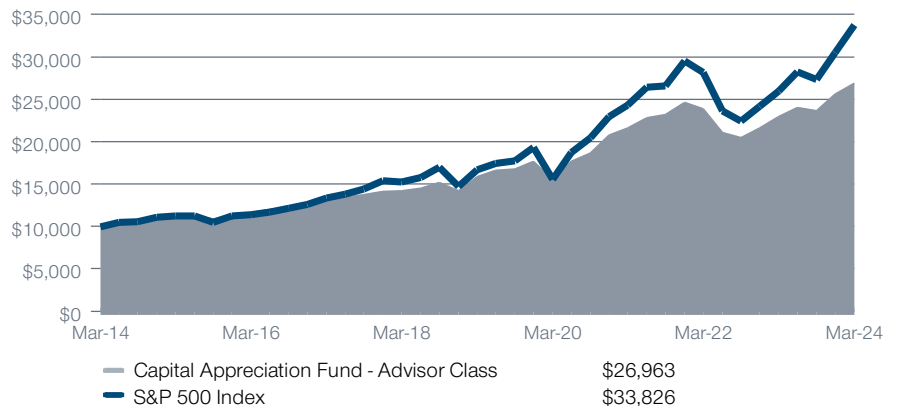

The fund's willingness to seek appreciation opportunities outside the stock market may help aid performance when stocks are declining.

The value approach carries a risk that the market will not recognize a security's intrinsic value for a long time or that a stock judged to be undervalued may actually be appropriately priced.

Because of the fund's fixed-income holdings or cash position, it may not keep pace in a rapidly rising market.

Definitions

Beta: A measure of market risk of an investment option that shows how responsive the investment is to a given market index, such as the Standard & Poor's 500 Index. By definition, the beta of the benchmark is 1.00. An investment with a beta of 1.10 is expected to perform 10% better than the index in up markets and 10% worse in down markets. Usually, higher betas represent riskier investments. Figures are calculated using monthly data and are net of fees.
