INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The fund seeks to provide high income and capital appreciation.

The fund will normally invest at least 80% (and potentially all) of net assets in the government or corporate debt securities of emerging nations.

Fund holdings may include the lowest-rated bonds, including those in default.

Expect to maintain an intermediate- to long-weighted average maturity; there are no maturity restrictions on the overall portfolio or on individual securities.

BENEFITS AND RISKS

Significantly greater income potential than U.S. Treasury securities or investment-grade sovereign bonds—compensating investors for taking higher risk.

Effective portfolio diversification relative to an all-U.S. bond portfolio based on calculated risk analysis.

Possible higher shorter-term volatility than U.S. investments as political and economic uncertainty and instability and currency fluctuations may impact emerging economies.

To the extent the funds use futures, swaps, and other derivatives, they are exposed to additional volatility and potential losses.

Definitions

Beta: A measure of market risk of an investment option that shows how responsive the investment is to a given market index, such as the Standard & Poor's 500 Index. By definition, the beta of the benchmark is 1.00. An investment with a beta of 1.10 is expected to perform 10% better than the index in up markets and 10% worse in down markets. Usually, higher betas represent riskier investments. Figures are calculated using monthly data and are net of fees.
