INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The fund seeks long-term capital appreciation and income.

The fund's broad multi-asset class opportunity set includes developed markets and emerging markets equities, a wide range of global developed markets and emerging markets bond strategies, and various diversifying strategies designed to improve risk-adjusted returns.

The fund can tactically overweight and underweight asset classes from their normal allocation. The Fund's normal allocation is approximately 60% equities, 30% global fixed income including exposure to below-investment-grade securities, and 10% alternative investments.

Tactical decisions are based on a detailed assessment of cross-asset valuations and global capital markets conditions. Tactical decisions may change the risk profile of the fund.

BENEFITS AND RISKS

In a single offering, the fund offers, global diversification across asset classes and regions of the world, tactical views expressed through portfolio reallocations, and bottom up security selection to create an actively managed global portfolio.

The fund is subject to the unique risks of international investing, including unfavorable currency exchange rates, political or economic uncertainty abroad, or abrupt and severe price declines. These risks are heightened for investments in emerging markets. The portfolio's investments in alternative investments and hedge funds are difficult to value and monitor when compared with more traditional investments, and may increase the fund's liquidity risks. Diversification cannot assure a profit or protect against loss in a declining market. Derivatives are used in the fund for selective market exposures.
