INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth.

The fund will invest at least 80% of net assets in the common stocks of companies engaged in any facet of communications and technology, including publishing, movies, cable TV, telephones, cellular services, technology, and equipment.

The fund seeks to identify companies with good appreciation prospects. The fund manager may use both growth and value approaches to stock selection.

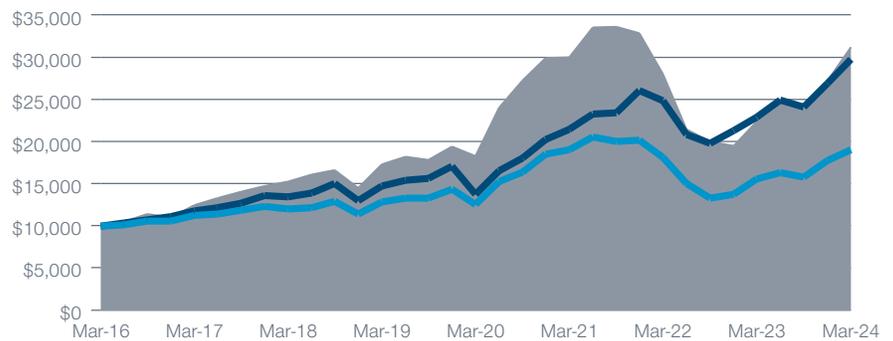

BENEFITS AND RISKS

Rapid advances in technology offer substantial opportunities for strong long-term capital appreciation.

This fund is focused on the communications and technology industries and is less diversified than stock funds investing in a broader range of industries. Therefore, it may experience significant volatility.

Performance data quoted represents past performance and is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Investment return and principal value will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance data quoted. To obtain the most recent month-end performance, visit troweprice.com. The T. Rowe Price fund shares the portfolio of an existing fund (the original share class of the fund is referred to as the "investor class"). The total return figures for this I Class have been calculated using the performance data of the Investor Class up to the inception date of the I Class (3/23/16) and the actual performance results of the I Class since that date. Because the I Classes are expected to have lower expenses than the Investor Classes, the I Class performance, had it existed over the periods shown, would have been higher. The average annual total return figures reflect the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, if any.

The fund(s) may have other share classes available that offer different investment minimums and fees. See the prospectus for details.

Definitions

Beta: A measure of market risk of an investment option that shows how responsive the investment is to a given market index, such as the Standard & Poor's 500 Index. By definition, the beta of the benchmark is 1.00. An investment with a beta of 1.10 is expected to perform 10% better than the index in up markets and 10% worse in down markets.
