Investment Objective & Strategy

The Short-Term model portfolio's primary objective is to provide incremental income above money market strategies, while seeking to conservatively manage drawdown and negative absolute performance risk consistent with a 1-3 year investment horizon.

- A targeted blend of low duration fixed income exposure diversified across a set of actively managed T. Rowe Price mutual funds.
- The model portfolio offers tactically managed allocations, flexing between the two primary levers at investor's disposal to generate a higher than cash return at incrementally more volatility: credit quality and curve positioning.

An investor's actual account returns may differ from the portfolio returns shown due to decisions made by the program sponsor, including a selection of funds and/or share classes. The investor's advisor may also charge a fee. If these fees were deducted from the returns shown, the returns would be lower.

The Funds' total return figures reflect the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, if any.

^The T. Rowe Price Fund shares the portfolio of an existing fund (the original share class of the fund referred to as the "investor class"). The total return figures for the I Class shares have been calculated using the performance data of the investor class up to the inception date of the I Class (shown above) and the actual performance results of the I Class since that date. Because the I Classes are expected to have lower expenses than the Investor Classes, the I Class performance, had it existed over the periods shown, would have been higher.

The fund(s) may have other share classes available that offer different investment minimums and fees. See the prospectus for details.
